

Engineering

An activity-based engineering environment provides opportunities for students to gain greater knowledge, understanding and experience of different engineering materials and processes and their applications in society.

This course provides a foundation for further study in the area of engineering and contributes to the overall personal development of the students, their preparation for further education/training and for adult and working life.

Course Breakdown

- Design Project – 25%
- Day Exam – 25%
- Written Exam – 50%

